The Associate Degree Nursing Program at Roxbury Community College was established in 1987. The goal of the program is to serve the community with quality education for a rewarding career in the nursing profession. The course of study at Roxbury Community College leads to an Associate in Science Degree. Graduates are eligible to take the NCLEX-RN examination to become registered nurses.

The College is committed to diversifying Boston's nursing workforce by providing a well-rounded academic and clinical program. Roxbury Community College has clinical affiliations with some of the top health care facilities in the United States, including Boston Medical Center, Brigham & Women's Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital, New England Baptist Hospital, and many rehabilitation, long term, and community health care sites. Our nursing graduates are employed in all areas of nursing and many continue their formal nursing education in baccalaureate and graduate level institutions.
